INFORMATION REQUEST NO. 1

3. Please identify any limitations on availability during the market test period, including whether USPS Connect Local Mail will be available to individuals or whether the service is intended to be solely available to businesses. If the Postal Service intends to change limitations on availability during the market test period, please provide the planned schedule for such changes.

RESPONSE:

The product is available to all users with a business Click-N-Ship account, whether the account owner is a business or an individual.

During the market test period, USPS Connect Local Mail is planned to only be available to mailers who have registered for a Click-N-Ship business account or have some other API approved account that allows for the creation of labels and electronic payment for the mail pieces. The service will be available to individuals who have access to Click-N-Ship or other API accounts. There are currently no planned changes for these restrictions.
